

PCRM ACTION ALERT
Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine

Your Action is Needed!

More than 7,000 Monkeys, Pigs, and Goats in Distress

Dear Ms. Hostetter,

As you read this, animals are being shot, burned, exposed to toxic chemicals, or are having their limbs amputated in an attempt to train soldiers to treat injuries resulting from trauma and chemical exposure. PCRM recently discovered that the Department of Defense (DoD) is training military medical personnel with monkeys, pigs, and goats. The animals are subjected to unnecessary pain and fear, even though alternatives are available.

Pledge Your Support >
SEND TO A FRIEND >

Your Gift Today is WORTH TWICE AS MUCH!
PCRM Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine

Double Your Gift Here!

Dear PCRM supporter,

Last week I sent you an important e-mail that described how the Department of Defense (DoD) is using animals in military medical training. Thousands of animals endure great pain, suffering, and death in a practice that is totally unnecessary because we have better ways to train personnel to treat soldiers injured in combat. Your help is needed today to stop this practice and stand up to the DoD!

Please make a gift today to help PCRM expand our work keeping animals out of harm's way. When you make your gift online by Dec. 31, it will be doubled!

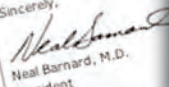

One of PCRM's longtime donors has received online between now and now and upon all PCRM supporters working together and impact—will be doubled.

I know you care about animals and human lives. So I'm sure you agree that the harm inflicted on the animals stopped.

PCRM is committed to challenge current practices, but it will take a challenge. Please give today.

PCRM must stand ready in the future. online gift today will be doubled!

Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

Neal Barnard, M.D., President

P.S. PCRM is scheduled to meet in Washington, DC 2009.

Dear Ms. Hostetter,

I hope you saw Dr. Barnard's e-mail to you last week. The cruelty inflicted on these animals is hard to fathom. Here's what a soldier reported to the New York Times about what was done to one young pig (warning—the following is graphic):

"They shot him twice in the face with a 9-millimeter pistol, and then six times with an M16 and then twice with a 12-gauge shotgun. And then he was set on fire."

One of PCRM's members has offered to match your online gift between now and Dec. 31—and he has increased his original challenge of $25,000 to $50,000 because of the incredible support we have been receiving for this campaign. Make a gift today!

With full member support, PCRM will be well-positioned to challenge the Department of Defense representatives to change their animal policies and improve their medical practices when PCRM meets with them in January.

Thank you for your time and support.

Ryan Merkle
Manager of Humane Education Programs

Forwarded message
From: PCRM President Dr. Neal Barnard
Date: December 10, 2008
Subject: Your Gift Today Will Be DOUBLED
To: lhoetter@lautmandc.com

LAST CHANCE!
Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine

Dear Ms. Hostetter,

It's not too late to make a tax-deductible gift to help PCRM stop cruelty to animals.

Ms. Hostetter, I hope you will take this final opportunity in 2008 to help PCRM continue our critical work in 2009 and take advantage of a unique opportunity to double your gift. As you may already know, a generous PCRM donor offered to match online gifts made in December up to $25,000.

But thanks to an overwhelming response from fellow supporters, the match has been increased to $75,000! So please make your gift by Dec. 31—it will go further than ever to support our work.

With your help, PCRM has made many strides, but in 2009 our work to keep animals free from pain and suffering in animal labs at research and educational facilities will be more pressing than ever.

Please make a tax-deductible gift to help fuel the work that you and I care so deeply about—saving and improving the lives of animals and people through better medical training, research, and nutrition. Your gift will be doubled to help PCRM meet the urgent challenges that wait in 2009.

For example, you'll help PCRM stand poised and ready as we meet with the Department of Defense in early January. With you by our side, I know we can convince them to stop inflicting pain on animals in their military training exercises. Your gift will be a valuable investment in this, and all of our work.

Thank you and best wishes for the New Year.

Best regards,

Neal Barnard, M.D., PCRM President

P.S. Make a special year-end gift today and help save more animal lives in 2009.

Your Gift Today is WORTH TWICE AS MUCH!
PCRM Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine

Dear Ms. Hostetter,

Last week I sent you an important e-mail that described how the Department of Defense (DoD) is using animals in military medical training. Thousands of animals endure great pain, suffering, and death in a practice that is totally unnecessary because we have better ways to train personnel to treat soldiers injured in combat. Your help is needed today to stop this practice and stand up to the DoD!

Please make a gift today to help PCRM expand our work keeping animals out of harm's way. When you make your gift online by Dec. 31, it will be doubled!

uncommon minds for uncommon missions

